Council Delays Awarding Job to Robert & Company, Engineers.

A proposal to award Robert & Company, Atlanta engineering firm, a contract for the erection of a $538,000 city incinerator was held up yesterday by city council and sent back to the sanitary committee for further consideration.

Previously the committee unanimously had voted to award the contract to the Atlanta firm headed by L. W. (Chip) Robert, but Wiedeman & Singleton, engineers, informed council by letter that they had not been notified of the committee meeting at which the contract was discussed and asked that action be deferred until they were given a hearing.

There was little debate on the question. When Councilman Frank Beck, chairman of the sanitary committee, submitted the proposal to council, Alderman Ed A. Gilliam made a motion that it be sent Seek New Trial for Convicted Slayer of Young Gibson Merchant.

Attorneys appealed to the Georgia supreme court vesterday for a new trial for John Sherman Harris, convicted of killing Clellian Chalker, young Gibson merchant.

The trial jury did not recommend mercy, making death sentence mandatory. The Hancock county superior court overruled a motion for a new trial and Harris appealed to the high court. Chalker wtas shot to death last December 17, after he had closed his store and started riding to his home two miles from Gibson. His body was found near the road and blood in a ditch near his automo-

Winking Flashlight.

Harris reported to Sheriff J. L. Kitchens he had seen someone attempting to hold up the storekeep-er and carried officers back to the scene. There, officers said, they saw a white man at a vacant house winking a flashlight. They called to him to halt and fired when he fled. He was never seen again. M. C. Barwick and J. Roy Mc-Cracken, of Louisville, represented Harris, Barwick arguing before the high court, while Clement E. Sutton, of Washington, appeared as special counsel for the state.

The defense raised the question as to whether the trial judge erred in charging the jury on the law of conspiracy when only one person, Harris, was indicted for the crime.

The state countered with the as-sertion that "the existence of a conspiracy may be proved by circumstantial as well as by direct or positive testimony

Jurors Questioned. Another question raised by de-fense counsel was whether G. M. Walden and Grover May were qualified jurors. It was contended they had relatives within the prohibited degrees who contributed to a fund "to prosecute" Harris.

The prosecution said the defense failed to prove relationship. Harris' attorneys charged anothhouse records showed that when er juror, German Hawkins, was "so biased and prejudiced against the defendant that he could not afford to give him a fair trial. offered an affidavit alleging Haw-kins said before the trial that if selected as a juror he would "send him to the electric chair."

The state came back with Haw-kins' affidavit denying he made any such remark and his affidavit that his mind was free of any bias or prejudice against the defendant.

5-CENT SHOPPERS' BUSES IS GRANTED

Council Also Gives Power Company Right To Run Special 10-Cent Round Trip in Non-Rush Hours

Permission to operate additional five-cent shoppers' buses and inaugurate a special 10-cent roundtrip fare for non-rush hours was granted the Georgia Power Company yesterday by city council.

The ordinance permitting the changes provides that they shall be put into effect on an experimental basis. They may be discontinued basis. They may be discontinued at any time on 10 days' notice. The effective date for inaugura-tion of the new service was left to the traction company to announce.

Council granted franchises for operation of five-cent shoppers' buses on Gordon and Lee streets, Marietta street and Edgewood avenue, West Hunter street and Auburn avenue and Ponce Leon avenue to Glen Iris drive. Ponce de

An "off peak" 10-cent round-trip fare will be good from 9 to 4 o'clock Monday through Friday. Thus a patron might board a street car after 9 o'clock, and obtain a round-trip ticket for 10 cents which would entitle him to return before 4 o'clock.

A resolution asking that these changes and improvements be put into effect was introduced Councilman J. Allen Couch and adopted by council. His resolution also asked that the company improve service on the Stewart avenue-Sylvan Hills bus line.

Is Charged With Fraud Republicans Willing To Attend Such a Conference

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(A) Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, administration leader in the senate, announced tonight he had sounded out the Republican leadership of the chamber on the idea of at-tending a bi-partisan conference at the White House to discuss the neutrality law controversy.

at White House.

The Republicans, it was made known, expressed willingness to attend such a conference. Sen-ator McNary, Republican, Oregon, the minority floor leader, began polling his colleagues so that he would have something official to tell the President about their attiure toward the administration's neutrality law revision bill, which the senate foreign relations committee has locked up until the next session of congress.

Talks With McNary.

Barkley disclosed that he had talked with McNary and with Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont, the assistant Republican leader, about such a conference. He said he "asked them if they ould be willing to go to White House and talk the situation over with the President, if such a course became desirable.

U. S. JURY INDICTS

Capitol Impatient. The Kentuckian said that he and other administration leaders went over the neutrality situation carefully with the President, dis-cussing all possible methods of getting the legislation out of its pigeon hole in the committee and onto the senate floor.

While they talked, many at the capitol waited impatiently for the discussion to bring some indication of when congress might ad-journ. However, Barkley and his colleagues said that not only had a decision still to be reached on neutrality but that the leadership would call for enactment, in some form, of the administration's new $2,800,000,000 lending program. The capitol's adjournment predicters, who had been saying the session would end on July 29, nevertheless continued to say so, but with the added expression of possibility that it might last a week longer than that. Despite the statements of the leadersnip, very few saw any chance that the neutrality bill could be taken up.

The lending bill, most thought. would not necessarily take a great deal of time, but its amount might total much less than the President requested. Word spread, particularly in the house, that to facilitate action, concessions might be made to the opposition.

"The Vitals of WPA"

John L. Lewis, CIO president, speaking in Chicago, declared that congress had "cut the vitals out of the WPA program." He was referring to the requirement, enacted in the latest WPA appropriation bill, that workers must put in 130 hours a month—an average of five hours to the working day-in return for their WPA

Lewis evidently has an entirely different conception of "the vitals of the WPA" than that held by the general public. For, if the workers have not, in the past, been required to work an average of five hours a day, it would be much more reasonable to assume that congress, by this act, had restored "the vitals" to the idea behind the creation of WPA.

It must be remembered this activity of the federal government was created as an emergency means of providing work and sustaining wages for men and women who were able to work, but unable to find employment in private industry. In other words, it was a means by which the government could support its penniless unemployed, in the guise of employment instead of through the character-destroying method of the dole.

The taxpayers approved the plan, they were quite willing to contribute to the upkeep of their less fortunate neighbors by this means. It was, primarily, a supplying of the essentials of life-no more-with the providing of work a secondary consideration.

The taxpayers, however, never dreamed that any man, thus made beneficiary of the generous, charitable heart of America, could object to working five hours a day, at least, in return. Buch an objection would be but the mean response of a congenital ingrate and it was not believed there were many such in America.

Now, however, congress has found it necessary to require 130 hours work per month by WPA employes. And the paradoxical condition results that the beneficiaries of public generosity, some of them, "go on strike" against continuing to receive that generosity, rather than perform a short day's work, six days a week, in return. They are given a 30-hour week and Arguments about "prevailing wage" and "union scale" are beside the point. These people are not, in the ordinary sense of the term, employed. They are the technically unemployed, given something to do and something to eat to tide them over the temporary gap before they can again go back to regular work.

"The vitals" of the WPA consist of generosity, or charity, disguised in the form of created jobs, for such time as the beneficiary may need such help until he can again join the ranks of the normally employed.

If work for the WPA is to be made as attractive as Lewis seems to desire, the result will simply be a state of permanent competition between government and private industry for labor, skilled or otherwise. The taxpayers would then face a self-perpetuating WPA draining money from the treasury, adding to the national deficit, year after year, time with-

There was never any intent to make WPA jobs so attractive men would prefer them to all others. Yet it seems undeniable that in some parts of the country, at least, just this result has come about.

Lewis is further quoted, from Chicago, as voicing a threat of retaliation at the polls, as "In the coming political campaigns, we shall want to know from any party or candidate who seeks labor support just what program they will advance to give people work."

As originally planned, the WPA was an excellent program "to give people work." The objection raised by Lewis is not that it fails to provide work, but that it does not provide full union wages, shorter hours and a general sinecure for everyone.

Cotton Bagging

For the first time in the history of American cotton production, cotton bagging for the baled staple is available, this year, for all growers or ginners who will use it, at no extra cost.

Reports from Emanuel county state, for instance, that orders have already been placed in that county alone for sufficient cotton bagging to cover 10,000 bales. It is probable that similar reports could be made by many other cotton counties of Georgia.

It is stated that the producer who wishes his bales wrapped in cotton, instead of in the foreign-produced, imported jute as formerly should promptly notify his ginner to that effect. The ginner may secure the bagging by asking the AAA, at Washington, for instruc-

It is estimated that if all southern-grown cotton was packed in this new bagging it would provide an outlet for an additional 200,000 bales per annum, reducing the cotton surplus to this

It has long been an anomaly that cotton, from which the finest possible bagging is made, has been wrapped for market in the imported

One reason for this has been that the difference in weight is to the disadvantage of the cotton bagging to the extent of about 7 1-2 pounds per bale. This, however, is now being overcome through two channels. In the first place cotton buyers, if requested, are nearly all of them making proper allowance for this additional tare. In the second place there are two bills now before congress, one in the senate, introduced by Senator Bilbo, of Mississippi, and one in the house, introduced by Representative Fulmer, of South Carolina, which provide that cotton shall in future be bought and sold by net, instead of gross, weight. The house bill was passed by that body in June and now awaits action by the senate.

If either of these bills passes it will remove the weight advantage previously enjoyed by jute and will place both modes of bale packing on equal footing.

Then there should no longer be any excuse for wrapping bales of cotton in any other than material made out of that staple itself. It will no longer be necessary for the southern cotton farmer to pay tribute to the tariff-protected jute interests and there will be a newly created market for 200,000 bales of cotton annually. In addition to all these advantages, the cotton-bagged bales are much neater in appearance and the raw cotton itself is much better

Every cotton producer in the south should do two things immediately. First, request his ginner to provide cotton bagging for his bales this fall. Second, he should contact his senators and representatives at Washington, asking them to push to early enactment, and vote for, either the Bilbo or the Fulmer bill.

Another Ideal Gone

It's discouraging, the way illusions go The latest debunking by reality is that sailors and the sea aren't what they used to be, which brings a doleful lament from William McFee, writer of sea stories. The famed mariner and author is completely through with finding jobs for New England boys on ships. The boys come back to land and figuratively tell Father Neptune he's all right to bathe in, but that's about all. Besides, mourns McFee, today the "running of a ship is becoming more and more a matter of time-clock and comp-

McFee says his tearful say in the Yale Review, writing that he used to aid college boys discover ways to work their way over the waters to Europe during summer vacation. Later, when the depression barged down on the world, he decided to help only poor boys who needed the money. With both groups, however, the results were the same. After a couple of trips, sometimes just one trip, the would-be sailors said they had enough of life on the briny deep. They preferred the most humdrum of jobs on land to life on the ocean waves. Taking an analytical view of the situation, McFee attempts to get at the bottom of the average American boy's distaste for a career in the merchant marine. He mentions a few factors, such as loneliness and insecurity; disruptive strife among maritime unions; the lack of government subsidy for the merchant marine; the dwindling romance of life on the rolling deep compared, for instance, with the more exciting life of the airplane pilot. Shades of old Salem and Boston of a century ago! Truly, the machine age has us down.

Editorial of the Day

ASSUMPTION NOTED

(From The Baltimore Sun.)
It is not surprising that the Works Progress Administration should have concluded, on the basis of research in employment trends since 1929, that America's manufacturing industries no longer can be counted upon to absorb the coungrowing labor supply. Existence of the WPA depends upon the need for giving work remillions of unemployed, and it is only natural that its executive should think in terms of their own experience during the recent depression years.

The WPA research workers point out, in three lengthy volumes, that the increase in man-hour efficiency since 1929 has greatly altered the relation of employment to production. ment that the output level of boom days could be attained today with fewer man-hours of labor is a platitude. But should we conclude with the WPA that, since output per man-hour seems liketo increase further, manufacturing employment in the future probably will be below that of 1929? The assumption upon which conclusions of this kind are fuonded should be subjected to scrutiny. The crucial assumption in this case is that current economic trends will continue unchanged. A great many reputable economists made this assumption in 1928 and 1929 and could see nothing ahead but endless prosperity. A great many others are making it now, and can foresee only depression what Professor John Maynard Keynes calls "stabilization at underemployment" and Professor

Alvin H. Hansen terms "secular stagnation. The reasoning behind predictions of this kind is logical enough, but the factors in the world's economy have a way of changing without notice. New technocoligacl developments, new governmental policies, major wars-all sorts of things can happen. Perhaps it is just as well not to worry too much about specific dilemmas. The world has a way of outgrowing them and providing us with new and more interesting ones,

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

THE VARIETY CLUB Saturday afternoon I stood and looked for a long time at a framed picture on the wall in one of the rooms of the newly-formed chapter of the theatrical club, Variety, in Atlanta.

It was the picture of an 11-year-old young lady and she is as cute as a speckled pup and much prettier. She was left in the hospital room of the Sheridan theater in Pittsburgh by a distressed mother who could not care for her child.

The men employed in the office of the theater cared for the five years and then saw that she was adopted by a family who could give her a normal home life. Her identity is protected. The men who joined together to give the baby a chance in life formed a club, dedicated to children's charity. The club became a national institution and now Atlanta has its chapter. Some local children's charity, to be selected at some future time,

One can, if one wishes, consider the destinies in life. One deserted child has provided an influence which will grow more powerful as the years go on; an influence which has helped many children get a start in life; an influence which has meant hospital treatments for crippled children.

It was odd, thinking of the tides of destiny, standing there looking at her picture. About us was the sound of laughter and conversation. There was music and there were vases of flowers. It was the formal opening of the club and there, near the entry, was the picture of Catherine Ann Sheridan—whose new life was destined to spend a few hours in a theater and then become a life which would help hundreds of other babies and children to better lives.

It was very nice of you, Catherine Variety Sheridan. And very wise of your mother to leave you in the Sherldan

THE VERY YOUNG IDEA I do wish the Variety clubs would publish a symposium of their opinions on the methods of rearing children. I am aware of the fact that there are a number of books published on the subject and that a number of lecturers do a very good business lecturing to

It has been my experience, however, that psychology must be cut and fitted like dresses. The neat bit of psychology which impels one child to enjoy its spinach may make the next one turn over the dish with an expression which says, "I'll take vanilla."

My own efforts have been successful along the line: "The spinach I do not want you to eat is over there in that dish." This usually leads to a remark: "Look at me, I'm eating it right now." The psychologists with whom I have talked shriek in something oximating horror when they discover this neat bit of psychology. It seems it is in reverse and the very worst thing that could be done. Nevertheless, it works. I am very much afraid that I am a nuisance because I do not r am a huisance because I do not believe in psychology books as applying to all children in the same fashion and I do not care for the lash or the switch. If a child says, "I do not like it," then I see no business in urging or cajoling or insisting that it is good for the child. In many other things I am inclined to take the child's statement. Maybe the child is right and I am wrong. Such things worry me and they tell me that I am the very worst influence possible on child phychology and on discipline. I hope the Variety Club can publish something on the on child phychology and on

A REAL ADDITION The Variety Club is a very real addition to our town and ought to be a real asset to the theatrical business and its personnel.

Mr. Bill Jenkins is president and I doubt if he knows how to fold a diaper or what the proper temperature of a bottle should be. I mean a bottle of baby's milk. Bob Wilby, E. E. Whitaker and the associated officers are among the better fellows of this world.

Their picture and a story of the club appeared in Sunday's paper. I hope Catherine Variety Sheridan lives to be a very old lady and has a fine lot of grandchildren about her in her old years. She will have a tradition which few women have. If the Variety clubs continue to grow and do good through their efforts, they will make of this deserted baby one of the great stories of charity.

If you are lucky enough to be invited some day to the Variety Club, take a look at Miss Catherine Sheridan. She was a deserted baby and she was given as a name that of the theater in which she was left.

And yet her name already has done more for humanity and for unfortunate children than many names great in tradition and his-The Variety Club merits a long life and a happy one. And I imagine the Atlanta "tent" will do its share in adding new luster to the name of 11-year-old Catherine—the symbol of a great or-

The Blind Man Who Felt the Elephant's Leg Said the Animal Was Like a Tree

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When the dust storms were first-page news, numbers of photographers were sent west to get pictures of the drouth section. Of course such pictures of disaster, like the short previews of a movie, show only the scenes that are most remarkable. But one photograand improving nature's work by planting evidence.

In some barren pasture he found an ancient bovine skull, bleachthe sun and rain for many years. Posed in the foreground, its hollow eye-sockets facing the camera, this ghostly and grue-some shell made any scene look desolate and ruined—whether the background was a dooryard, a corral or a cornfield. The photographer carried it around the dry region till he wore off a horn

Now a photograph of the skull, with windrows of dust in the was a true picture of a particular spot; and certainly it was a "dust bowl" scene, for there it was taken; but it wasn't a rue picture of the whole drouth region, for it gave the impression that skulls polka-dotted the dry prairie like a fall of hail.

It is difficult, if not impossible to know the truth concerning any of the great matters that now trouble our country and the world. We see and read certain particulars that are true, but generalities based upon these are false. The picture of one cadaverous share-cropper and his tubercular, slattern wife doesn't prove that all share-croppers are like them. The photographer picked the best specimens to make his point.

One honest and capable reporter tells us the German people dore Hitler, and another says they secretly hate and fear hi they are reporting the truth concerning one or a dozen Germans -not the whole people. Eighty millions, with different training and conflicting interests, aren't likely to agree about anything. It is a rare household in which all think and feel the same way concerning any moot matter.

No matter how much we read, or how hard we try to learn the truth, we cannot know what is going on behind the scenes. If we have a few facts on which to base an opinion, our natural bias or wishful thinking may trick us into error. And with the great of all nations twisting the truth to fit their secret purposes, we can't tell fact from fiction.

The common sense of all the people will save us from disaster if they learn the truth in time. People consent to folly only when tricked by falsehood. We can't prevent the trickery, but we can at least quit aiding it by accepting the skull in the foreground as the typical landscape of an empire.

SENTENCE UPHELD

Ex-Bondsman Loses Appeal of Conviction for Lottery Violation.

The Fulton county conviction and 12-month sentence imposed on Joel Lunsford, former bondsman for lottery violation was upheld yesterday by the state court of appeals.

The high court ruled out Lunsford's contention that because he was accused of a similar offense in Clayton county he had been placed in double jeopardy. The court of appeals ruled that the offenses were separate.

Lunsford was convicted in the criminal court of Fulton county and the conviction upheld by the superior court. Yesterday's ruling sustained the superior court on a certiorari filed with that court.

Wise spending can often be intelligent saving. Of course this applies to such important action as the purchase of adequate fire and casualty insurance. Everyone who owns a home, automobile or place of business should be fully protected.

In buying such insurance we now offer you a service which can mean a saving of as much as one year's premium. This is part of our program of "consumer financing" through installment repayment loans. Here is the way it can be done:

On three and five year policies the companies have lower rates embracing as much of a saving as one-fifth of the total premium.

We will lend you the money necessary to pay this premium.

No endorsement or collateral is required. The "unearned premium" on the policy is our security for the loan.

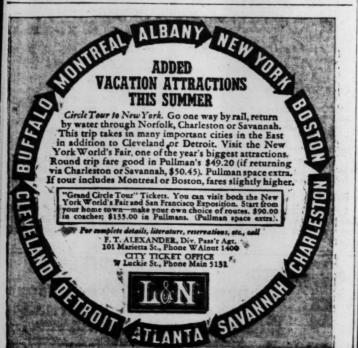

You repay the premium loan in installments-annually, semi-annually, quarterly or monthly. We make a plan to fit your needs. Loans will be made on policies of any approved company which has a regular schedule of "short rate" premiums.

Your own insurance agent will gladly cooperate with you and will explain full details as to how this plan works and the saving which you can effect. Consult him-or come to the bank.

Outstanding Middleweight Contender To Fight Ben Here Aug. 9

Atlanta's own colorful young as-pirant for middleweight champion-ship honors, Ben Brown, was back home Monday and inquiring into possible sites in the mountains to the biggest bout of his career locally. Ben intends to chop trees, swim and do road work in the great outdoors.

Brown has agreed to terms through his manager, Sam Sobel, for a 10-round decision fight at Ponce de Leon park Wednesday

The Boys' Club athletic committee, in command of the attraction is seeking the very best opponent and from a group consisting of Solly Krieger, Teddy Yarosz, Ken Overlin, Lou Brouillard and Al Bernard they are confident of finding someone who will force Ben to the limit of his ability if not actually whip him.

The Atlantan scored two impressive victories over Mike Pyan at Dallas and Paul Cortlyn at Houston. Cortlyn has just won five straight knockouts. Also in Houston he fought Al Bernard, a lad holding 33 knockouts in 37 tries. Ben got a draw, but Sam Sobel claims, and newspaper clippings more or less corroborate his testi-mony, that Brown was entitled to history.

"A lot of folks have been blaming the umpires when it was the official scorer who was to blame all along for the Crackers' troubles," he continued. 'Aren't you ashamed of yourself for keeping such fine boys of first place?" he insisted. (Editor's Note: In case anyone has come in late and doesn't know what this is all about, it seems that a fan, one Ben Williams, has laid the blame for the Crackers not being in first place to the official scorer for reasons not yet exactly clear. He alleged base hits were a dime a dozen and that the system had the tendency to cause the boys not to hustle.) Anyway, such a startling accusation demanded action, and with bowed head the official scorer headed for the Cracker

The speech he delivered before that double-header is now "You, Willie Duke," he said. "Either you sock that baseball out of the park or a mile between the outfielders or you don't get any hits today. Burge, the same thing goes for you. It won't be necessary to tell you other fellows what you Bone, Gottesman Win need to do to get base hits. That's all."

WHATTA SYSTEM!

Willie Duke didn't get anything remotely resembling a hit Club championship tournament in until the ninth inning. Then he came up and rapped a hard Jones course. Other results in this single between the outfielders in right. Lester Burge, who already had collected a couple of doubles feated Roy Battle by default. Ba-

Why, he could have been a hero. No other team in Scuthern league history ever won an all-star game, pennant and a Dixie series all in the same year. The boys who do the scoring in the future will keep on their season, when Danning hit a ball that bounced off his leg and all the National League way out to third base. He had been bothered by the bruise ever since and today, when it developed he had a fast pulse and was running a temperature, Dr. Palmer decided it would be "best to get him off his feet.

BREAKS HIS LEG IN COLLISION GRANT, MORRIS

Dr. Palmer said Danning was resting comfortably last night, but that he'd have to stay in the hospital for anywhere from two to four days. Chiozza, too, after coming out of the anesthetic, was doing as well as could be expected. The Chicago Cubs blasted Whit-low Wyatt, Vito Tamulis and Tot Pressnell to a fare-thee-well and routed the Dodgers, 11 to 2. Veteran Charley Root went the route

BUT LOSES, 3-0

Hadley Allows Five Hits; Red Sox Streak Snapped at 12 Straight.

By The Associated Press. Though he struck out nine of Briggs Jr., vice president and them in the first six innings, the treasurer of the Detroit baseball World Champion Vankees got to World Champion Yankees got to Bob Feller twice when it counted Jacobs said that Louis would and, behind the five-hit shutout pitching of their own Bump Hadley, whipped Feller and the Indians, 3-0, yesterday. The triumph three-game series. Jacobs said he would take out a boxing license in Michigan in the name of William (Scotty) Monteith, Detroit resident, who is series. With Hadley scattering the Indians' safeties, four of them sintle dians' safeties, over four innings, and giving monly two bases on balls to Feller's gles, over four innings, and giving only two bases on balls to Feller's four, the Yanks didn't need to unleash their customary dynamite. They got the winning run in the fifth, when George Selkirk walked, took second on a wild pitch, and scored on Babe Dahlgren's single to center, and then salted the game away in the seventh. Hadley opened this frame with a two-bagger along the left-field foul line. He went to third while Frank Crosetti was being retired, and then ambled across the plate on Red Rolfe's screaming threebagger to left. Tom Henrich rap-ped a single to the same sector to score Rolfe with the final run. Hadley, in winning his eighth game against only two defeats, got in hot water in the second but had enough on the ball to pull himself out of it. With one out, Jeff Heath doubled to left and went to third as Ken Keltner beat out a hit to Crosetti. At this point Hadley bore down, got Oscar Grimes on a strikeout and then threw out Jimmy Webb.

Feller was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth after giving up six of the "anks' seven hits. It was his fourth defeat against 14 victories

The Detroit Tigers snapped the winning streak of the Boston Red Sox at 12 straight games by scoring a 13-to-6 triumph yesterday. Earl Averill hit two homers and George Tebbetts one for the Ben-gals while I'ed Williams got a circuit clout for the Red Sox.

In a free-hitting contest, the Philadelphia Athletics came from behind to defeat the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 8. St. Louis held a 6-2 lead at the end of the third. Washington and Chicago were rained out.

PEBS 6; CHICKS 1.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 17.—The Little Rock Travelers assumed the role of inant-killers again tonight, knocking off he League-leading Memphis Chicks, tiant-killers again Memphis Chicks, to 1.

The Chick pitching collapsed in the seventh when the Travelers scored all their runs on three hits, four bases on balls and one hit batsman. Long Jim Henry, who started like a house afire for the Chicks, blew up in that frame and Frank Veverka, who succeeded him, could do no better.

The Veteran Rufe Meadows, who staggered through for the Travelers under a 13-nit deluge, was saved from disaster by a flock of dazzling double plays.

HELP

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, less pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Fills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Fills.

VISIT EXPERIMENT

Stuckey's Tests Viewed by Men From Throughout the South.

EXPERIMENT, Ga., July 17 .-(A)-Visitors from southern agricultural experiment stations step-ped into a veritable "land of magic" today when they called upon Director H. P. Stuckey, of the Georgia Experiment Station.

More than 50 research problems were being worked out by the station staff with the hope that one or more would succeed in finding an improvement profitable to Georgia farmers. Such as:

!. An instantaneous freezing method by which the natural color and flavor of the renowned Georgia peach may be preserved beyond the usual season. Peaches are not like apples or potatoes which may be preserved in ordinary cold storage. The flesh deteriorates rapidly, if frozen slowly fills with ice crystals and if exposed to air turns brown. Just' now a new peach, which slices nicely and freezes according to plan, offers hope because it holds its natural color three to four times as long as other 2. A pig that can't stand on its own feet because of a diet too rich in peanut meal. The problem here to discover what will correct the condition caused by the absince of a food element in the meal.

3. "Bottle-fed babies" of the plant kingdom. Only washed air gets to these plants and the supply of food elements given each recorded exactly. Some of these plants grow 10 inches in a week. The problem covers a wide field of soil fertility and plant food Dr. Stuckey doesn't expect all his 50 experiments to succeed, recalling his 30 years of work on grapes, "but the cumulative effect and the occasional 'gold strike encourages us in the belief the work is a profitable investment for the taxpayers."

Tomorrow the visiting agricultural experts will begin a tour of Georgia farm center., including seeking to avert a strike in the Pine Mountain valley, stopping for lunch at Warm Springs.

and thence to Mr. and Mrs. George Bye's place, where we were to be part of a distinguished picnic company. We arrived in good time, but were told to return another way, which we did gladly, because variety is always pleasant and all this country is lovely. Both ways, however, take exactly the same time to drive. A number of people were already at the Bye's when we arrived and others soon gathered. The day was perfect, cool and sunny, and the table which Mrs. Bye had arranged in the shape of an "E" was set down by what I call a brook, though I was gently rebuked and told it was a river. In any case it makes a very pleasant sound as it runs over the stones and adds great attraction

Many old friends and some new faces were there. Dr. Hendrik Van Loon showed me his newest publication, the product of some time spent in Sweden last summer. The story of the Swedish writer of songs and the illustrations are Dr. Van Loon's, the music is by Miss Grace Castagnetta. She played some of the songs for us after lunch and I think the book is one which no household should lack.

We reached home a little before 6 o'clock and so had a swim before dinner. The sun was not warm enough to make us want to lie around for any legnth of time, so I have had a ride and we are all, I hope, going to swim and play deck tennis before I go up to lunch with my cousin, Miss Laura Delano, at Rhinebeck. Mrs. Warren Robbins, of Washington, D. C., is staying with Miss Delano and some of Mrs. Robbins' children will be there also.

I have made a new discovery. Wednesday morning, while I lay idly looking at a cedar tree which grows near my sleeping porch, I noticed a great commotion near the top and saw a bird fly in and out several times. Finally, I found a nest with several young birds waiting open-beaked for the food to be dropped in. The same com-motion went on this morning, but I think they are nearly ready to fly and I will not be able to watch them for long.

Too Much fo Jilted Girl By Caroline Chatfield. DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I've been jilted and I am humiliated that I can't tell family though they are sure to f it out very soon. I could take heartache if only I didn't have face my famil, and friends w bad news and see the pity in the eyes. Please tell me that I will over it and tell me how to do it

I will lose my mind.

My dear child, these hurts our heart and hurts to our price don't kill us or run us craz either. For a little while or minds are like caged rats, rur ning around and around at suc a furious rate that we can't fin the way out of ourselves. The we become exhausted, reach standstill and see our way out

It's queer how our pride wor when it's wounded. We want hide from everybody, particular those we love most. We can't be for them to see us humiliated a suffering. We don't want the sympathy or their pity. Howeve the cure lies in coming clean wi our nearest and dearest, telli them the whole truth and trusti them to be tender and tactful wi us. When we have unburdened them, we are less concerned wi the rest of the world.

The healing hand of time one of God's best gifts to mor tals. Time heals our hurts, how ever deep. The experience tha anguishes us today, anguishe; u less tomorrow until finally the pain goes out of it. Moreover w can give time a shove, shorter our sentence to suffer if we make the honest effort.

Work is the big panacea fe pain. When we work during waking hours we haven't time fe moaning and groaning and whe night comes we are so tired w sleep in spite of ourselves an when we have slept we are read for work again. Somebody one wrote a story about a hard work ing girl who had a great sorro and no time to grieve over it. Fo months and months she looked for ward to the day when she coul give herself completely to the lux ury of grief. When the day finall came the grief was gone from he heart. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

JEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Wheat and corn values suffered losses of as much as 7-8 cent at times, while rye was off about 3-4 cent. Before the close, however, these declines were wiped away. Purchasing that gave the market its resistance was credited to milling interests, to dealers encouraged by the upturn in securities and to the effect of the government price supporting program. Most of the selling was due to favorable weather and to weakness in Liverpool wheat futures, which tum-bled 1 to 1 1-8 cents to new alltime lows.

Reports of good rains in the corn belt and cooler and unsettled weather in the spring wheat zone, together with a forecast of continued unsettled conditions had bearish effect in all pits.

The 12 principal interior markets received less wheat than a week ago or a year ago but Chi-cago had 1,004 cars, largest of the season, although much of this was not for sale. Domestic visible supply showed the largest increase of the season, gaining 19,-066,000 bushels the past week 110,727,000 bushels compared with 63,092,000 a year ago.

NEW YORK, July 17 .- (A)-In one of the broadest buying movements for more than a year, stock market prices bounded upward 1 to better than 7 points today, a number to new peaks for 1939. The list displayed rising tendencies from the start, with activity much more pronounced than in recent sessions. The rush to climb aboard gained such momentum in the final hour that the ticker tape fell 4 minutes behind floor transactions. Profit-taking shaded quotations at the finish in some cases, but many issues fin-ished near top levels.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 2 full points at 49.9, the biggest advance for any session since June, 29, 1938. Transfers of 1,750,600 shares compared with 543,620 last Friday and were the largest since March 31.

No one single news item was credited with the upthrust. Brokers suggested considerable short-covering and new speculative and investment purchasing were based mainly on the growing idea business developments for some time have been outdistancing markets. In addition, the belief seemed to be spreading that Europe would cscape a disastrous war.

Lifted fractions to more than 2 sints in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Phoenix Securities, Pittsburgh Forgings, Lock-heed, American Cyanamid "B" Molybdenum. Turnover of 201,000 shares, largest since April 11, compared with 82,000 Friday.

NEW YORK, July 17.—(P)—Bonds advanced sharply today in the biggest session in three and one-half months. Rises of 2 to 3 points were common throughout the list.

Transactions totaled $7,765,500 face value—the greatest since March 31—compared with $4,954,-200 Friday and $1,410,200 Saturday, the smallest Saturday trade since 1918.

The Associated Press averages were up all along the line, with the utilities graph reaching its highest point since September 4, Although corporate loans were the feature of the day, heavy transactions in United States treasuries served to send the government loans ahead as much as 12-32ds of a point. In contrast, foreign government issues were uneven and pretty much ignored by investors. Among corporates which gained 2 or more points were Alleghany stamped 5s of '50 at 28 7-8; Illinois Central 43-4s at 491-2; Reading 41-2s at 721-2; Southern Pacific 41-2s of '69 at 461-8; Great Northern 33-4s and 5s at 78 and 90 1-8, respectively; New York Dock 4s at 51; New York Central 5s at 55 3-4; Southern Railway 4s at 56 1-2 and Colorado Fuel & Iron 5s at 50.

The preponderance of rails in the forward movement was associ-ated with favorable carloadings and traffic reports.

WEEP FOR LOVE

Kim Disagrees With Betty When She Says Most Love Affairs End Unhappily

By RUBY M. AYRES.

Synopsis to preceding instalments:

When Derek Challoner's wife dies, the stodgy English landowner, whose marriage had been the result of a family understanding, is glad of his freedom and vows he will never marry again. Then he sees dainty Stelia Dawson playing a small part in a suburban theater and is an ardent suitor. She marries him. Imposing Narrow Lane Hall depresses Ler but he ignores her request to live in his small house in London. She is happy when her baby is born until the Challoner tradition puts little Elizabeth in charge of nurse, then governess. After seven unhappy hears she welcomes the open adoration of impecunious Pip Hulbert. When divorce threatens Stella pleads with Derek for Betty. He refuses and after her mother marries Pip, Betty pines, becomes very ill and Derek's doctor says she will die if not permitted to go to her mother. When Elizabeth is 16 Pip is killed in an accident and Stella is inconsolable. While on a bus trip a year later, Elizabeth meets Kim Lawless whose wood she invaded to pick primroses despite a warning to trespassers. She likes him and he says he hopes she comes again. Derek dies, leaving Elizabeth thalf his wealth if she leaves Stella and lives with her Aunt Thornley. Her stepsister Penelope brings this news and can't understand her decision to remain with her mother. Penelope tells her she was to marry Kim Lawless but he broke the engagement. Stella dies suddenly and Elizabeth lives with Aunt Thornley. At the Selby dance she meets Lawless. He aaks if she doesn't think it right to break an engagement when it's a mistake. Now go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT X.

"Not only dull, but impossible," Barbara insisted. "How can anyone know whether they are going to love the same person for ever and ever and ever? Somebody else more attractive might so easily come along, and then everyone would be in the cart. What do you say?' she demanded, turning "I'm tently. "I'm tently." to Elizabeth.

Elizabeth said a little shyly. "But Penelope . . " and then she stopped in confusion, with a quick glance at Lawless, says—"

Kim Lawless was there talking to Barbara. "All right?" Barbara asked.

Elizabeth shook her head. "There's been a wire from Paris. Penelope is in Paris and she's ill, very ill. Aunt Thornley is going over tonight and she wants me to go with her." She did not dare look at Lawless. "She said if I could motor to Dover, I could meet her there and we could cross together by the night boat. I'm so dreadfuly sorry," she apologized.

"What a shame!" Barbara said disappointingly. "When you've only just come! But, if course, if you must go—"

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 122

"It is futile to attack the unyielding walls of Tohr," the Shahn declared. "But we must try," Ukah insisted, "for I have friends there who will die unless we deliver them. One, called Tarzan of the Apes, twice saved my life. I gave him my word to bring aid."

"Then your promise must be kept," the valiant Shahn replied, "even at the price of our lives. Such is the code of Rathor. And now, we start at once to gather our warriors. The muster will require several days." "That may be too late," Ukah answered sadly. . . .

Meanwhile, events in Tohr were moving swiftly toward a climax, a climax interwoven with Tarzan's ultimate fate. Antea, informed of a plot for mutiny among the slaves of the Jewel Pits, hastened there to uncover the conspiracy and put an end to its originator.

Runik, the spy, pointed an accusing finger at Kailuk, the Rathorian. "Bring him here," Ahtea commanded. Then a cunning light came into her eyes as she noted that Kailuk was chained next to Tarzan and O'Rourke. "Bring the white men, too," the queen added pointedly.

(P)—Lee county officers extended their search to Georgia today for two women, identified as Thelma Rice and Gertrude Davis, wanted for questioning in connection with the gunshot death of Earl R. Haskew, 33-year-old bookkeeper, here Saturday.

Sheriff Bob King's deputies said Georgia authorities had been asked to detain the pair following the arrest of a man booked as Hubert McLellan at Tampa, who reported the women had told him they were going to a small Georgia town where they had relatives,

They Keep Their Long Vigil—But in Vain DIVERS WORK ON SQUALUS PONTOON

Sunken Sub Rushed. PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 17. (AP)—Delaying a descent to the sunken submarine Squalus until the way is clear, 10 navy divers made 13 trips today to pontoon No. 7 as they rushed preparatory work on a second attempt to bring the submersible and her 26 dead to the surface

Pontoon No. 7-still attached to the stern of the Squalus-is only 15 feet below the surface and the divers concentrated putting its air

The Squalus made her fatal dive May 23. Her second plunge came after weeks of careful salvage work by the navy. Her bow broke away, shot to the top for seconds,
